

Board Selects School Sites For Future Use

The Edmonton Public School board will recommend to the city council that certain school sites be retained for the building of new schools as part of the post-war city planning scheme, it was decided at a meeting of the property committee of the board Tuesday night.

R. S. Sheppard, superintendent of schools, said a report showed present school sites, which are owned by the board, but not at present used for school purposes and suggested additional sites be retained by the city, that should be reserved for the building of new schools.

NEED NEW BUILDING

The report stated that the Eastwood building is now nearly filled to capacity. The enrolment in that district is increasing rapidly and a new building to accommodate the high school pupils in that part of the city will be required in the near future.

The report suggested that a site should be selected for a new high school on the South Side. The report recommended adjoining the South Side athletic grounds. If this site is selected, the new building will provide the playground requirements of the school pupils.

At present 25 sites were listed, 14 on the North Side of the river and 11 on the South Side.

The report stated that it was reasonable to assume that no site will be needed for school property for many years to come.

Some of the suggested sites were for addition to existing buildings and many were in outlying districts of the city, where in case of future expansion, additional buildings will be necessary.

The districts include the Highlawn, Jasper Place, North Delton, 11th Avenue, 12th Avenue and 13th Avenue.

ACCEPT RECOMMENDATIONS

The board agreed to the superintendent's recommendations and it was decided to forward the report to the city council for the action of the zoning committee and honorary town planner, for approval before granting it to the city council.

During the meeting, a portable room for Forest Heights school was reached after the recommendation of Mr. J. McFadgen, who stated that there was urgent need for additional accommodation before the beginning of the next school year.

The question of a new school at Forest Heights was again discussed. It was again agreed that building a new school at Forest Heights would be financially impossible due to re-entrant construction costs.

One thousand grades of ours and two which were recommended this month because it had proved unsatisfactory, and various other alternatives were considered. The conditions in the school having also been unsatisfactory, the board decided to accept the plan with plans for the construction of an additional room.

Mr. Sheppard's recommendation that the school immediately convert a basement room at the Rutherford school into a classroom, to eliminate one teacher, was accepted.

It was also agreed to the board's

REPORT ON LIGHTING

In a report on the fluorescent lighting test made at the Queen Alexandra school, Mr. J. McFadgen, of plant, J. M. McAfee, stated the new lighting system had doubled the amount of light available for distribution and a minimum of glare in the classrooms. This has been achieved without the extra amount of power expended, the consumption cost, therefore, remaining the same.

Mr. Sheppard was authorized to proceed with the installation of the new improved fluorescent lighting in May, in Norwood and Ainsworth schools.

Before the Magistrate

Two charges of theft were laid against a 17-year-old girl who appeared in court yesterday before Justice A. L. Millar, K.C. Wednesday morning. She first made the accusation that she had been sold or two, charged with a similar offence, and was placed on suspended sentence.

The accused admitted having told police she was 18 when in court, but denied the charge of new charges read before being sent to juvenile court. She was charged with having stolen from a departmental store, and then going into another and taking a set of earrings.

P. Knott, solicitor for the defence, argued that the girl had been taken away from him. It was held that she was not fit for trial and her parents' adjournment came to an end. He was fined $15 or 31 days.

Douglas McLeod pleaded guilty to driving at an unreasonable speed and was fined $2 or 21 days.

Mike Chajak, pleading guilty to a charge of assault, was fined $2 or 21 days. His file was given to have been the instrument used in the accident on John Mayer in the south end of an Edmonton hotel on March 18.

Found guilty of failing to properly register a dog, a Siberian was fined $3 or five days by Magistrate L. Miller, K.C. Tuesday afternoon.

Edward Weiss, manager of an Edmonton coffee, was found guilty of allowing a disturbance on his premises and half dozen eggs were broken, and was assessed $5 or five days. Weiss was surprised by members of his staff on the occasion of his birthday, after MOSCOW, March 22.—Soviet vanguard drove nearly half way across Bessarabia to within 20 miles of Bucharest, capital of Romania, today after splitting fleeing German armies with a thrust through the Carpathians.

Front reports said Marshal Ivan S. Koniev's 2nd Ukrainian army forces were rolling across the Bessarabian plain at a pace which gave the Germans no time to react.

The federation requested also that clause 12 of union agreements re investigations and suspensions be deleted. The committee also recommended setting up an appeal board with proper representation from the employees to settle disputes with the company, to keep open the stream of machine gun and rifle fire.

The Germans launched a strong attack at 5:30 this morning against hill positions overlooking Cassino in an effort to win new ground and force the Allies to step up their shelling of the town.

The thrust was beaten off, however, after a short sharp exchange.

AT FIVE-DAY PERIOD

It also asked that in posting new employees, a period of five days expire instead of three days before appointments to vacant posts.

The civic employees' committee urged the commissioners to start further discussions and negotiations should they be unable to express the opinion that some common ground could be reached within which a settlement could be made.

"We further feel that settlements should be made at this time if possible," the committee said.

United States Foreign Policy Defined By Hull In 17 Points

WASHINGTON, March 22.—(AP)—Secretary of State Cordell Hull last night laid down a 17-point program of American foreign policy aimed at a post-war world of international co-operation, and called on all liberty-loving peoples to show themselves worthy of freedom by fighting for it.

Appoint House Group to Make Liquor Probe

Congress has higher monthly quota both in beer and spirits than those allowed in Alberta, thus adding to the dissatisfaction and discontent of many residents of our province; now therefore:

It is resolved, that in the opinion of this Assembly, that the members of this Legislature, in their consideration of the appointment of a commission of three, consisting of one member of this Assembly, one representative of the Alberta Legislature, and one representative of the Alberta Liquor Control Board, to thoroughly investigate the liquor situation, shall pay attention to the following matters:

(a) The necessity of introducing new regulations concerning the sale, distribution of beer, whereby it will be possible for each holder of a liquor license to have equal opportunity to sell beer, and share of the monthly quota, allowed, should he desire to do so.

(b) To conduct a complete survey to ascertain why there is a smaller quota of spirits and beer available in Alberta in comparison with other provinces in Canada having liquor control boards.

(c) A thorough investigation of the claim that some brands of spirits are being diluted by the adding of water to very high percentages, and the practice of the liquor control board in this connection.

(d) To provide the charge suggested in (c) is substantiated, the committee to suggest redress in the cost of such spirits to the consumer, because of this dilution.

(e) Consideration also to be given to any other matter which may be in question which in the opinion of the commission should be reviewed.

(f) As far as possible, the report should contain recommendations, must be presented to the Lieutenant Governor in Council for consideration and action.

AMENDED BY LAW

The Dominion resolution was amended by Hon. E. L. Hart, provincial treasurer, who moved a substitution.

Mr. Hart, Lucifer Match Company attorney, substituted the following:

"Whereas, the public dissatisfaction is the province at the present time, relative to the sale and distribution of liquor and beer in Alberta;

Whereas, liquor control boards in some of the other provinces of Canada are more liberal in the sale of both of spirits and beer than those allowed in Alberta, thus adding to the dissatisfaction and discontent of many residents of our province; now therefore:

If it is resolved that a committee of three members of this assembly, consisting of the Hon. Mr. Gerhart as chairman, Messrs. Deen and Bradette, be appointed to investigate and report their findings with recommendations to the Lieutenant Governor in Council, on the following matters, namely:

—The regulations concerning the distribution of beer in the province.

—The available supplies of liquor and beer in the provinces of Canada, and the price of same.

—The dilation of spirits together with the practice now in force of adding water to them.

—Such other matters relating to the sale and distribution of liquor and beer as may appear to the committee to be deemed advisable.

The Rev. J. A. Wingblad (S.C.) Wetaskiwin, seconded by W. M. McLean, Wetaskiwin, moved a sub-amendment to the bill to the amendment, which would have added to the resolution two further parts:

"That in the opinion of this Assembly, the sale of beer, more than eight hours in any day, not later than 8 p.m.,

RULED OUT OF ORDER

The sub-amendment was ruled out of order by Mr. Speaker Peter Dawson, on the grounds that it was covered by section 4 of the amendment to the main bill.

Mr. Low, speaking to his amendment, resolution, denied charges that the bill was designed to interfere with the Dominion government in restricting liquor sales. He said that in the opinion of Alberta had placed restrictions upon sales even before the Dominion restrictions had been announced.

"I am not, however, complacent about the amount of liquor the Dominion regulations allow," he said. "My complaints were directed at the methods the Dominion government uses in applying its state of inequalities in distribution of the available supply."

He told the assembly that reduction in the alcoholic content of liquor has been done in accordance with Dominion regulations dealing with stimulants, but losses in liquor revenues arising from such restrictions they were mostly engaged in tearing down buildings they had erected.

The charges were made by Mr. MacNeil during a discussion on the estimates for munitions and supplies for the war. Mr. MacNeil said that while the matter right way was for the minister of mines to be asked to make good, he had to hear anything that the Toronto member had to say.

In reply to Mr. MacNeil's criticism, Mr. Bradette said the purpose of the exploration at Fort McMurray was to determine whether petro-chemical prices, if further development was warranted, in large quantities, would be reasonable. Some might be spent on the project with advantage. Up to now less than $100,000 had been spent.

If the appeared designed, too, to put pressure on the United States to give clear foreign policy and to clarify some of the points of dissension between the two countries in connection with recent American moves in the diplomatic field.

DIRECTED AT HULL

Mr. Bradette's speech, fight for liberty was directed at Finland and the nervous Balkans, where Hitler has peace, Hungary, where Russia has peace, and the Balkans, Romania and Bulgaria swarm increasingly thicker.

This appeared to be the point of repeated utterances which Hull has made from time to time in cases there were significant expansions.

TESTS IN CHICAGO

"I sincerely hope that by June we will know whether we have anything," said Mr. Howe. "In the meantime, I will be doing what I can to see what process must be used to get rid of the high sulphur content of the oil and to make it possible to be of value in the production of refinery runs to what can be made of the product."

He suggested that the money being spent on research was too much when the fact was considered that they had been spending money on the tar sands for 18 months.

Mr. Bradette's speech, for instance, for each nation to demonstrate its capacity for stable and progressive development, to fulfill its responsibilities, its established record of cooperation with other nations."

This stress on the two-way application of the principle, Mr. Bradette said, would seem a response to recent inquiries as to whether the speech applies to Germany.

INFORMATION REQUESTED

Mr. Bradette's speech, information requested, because he said, there has been a growing interest in American foreign policy, as evidenced by increasing requests for information.

BAG THREE PLANES

OTTAWA, March 22.—(CP)—RCAF Minister last night destroyed three German aircraft over enemy territory and left others burning on the ground.

He suggested that the men of the regiment should seriously consider some method of getting rid of the planes, something that can't be done to alleviate what I regard as a very dangerous situation in Europe.

Mr. Wingblad, in his discussion of the liquor situation, said he had not been consulted when he was appointed. He pointed out that he was appointed to that position.

Reading a newspaper report of a statement made by Premier King regarding the question of liquor restrictions, Mr. Wingblad said it was pitiful to think of winning the war, I wonder if we're going to fight that very important fact."

He said temperature forces were coming over to help us, good homes, who go into the country, and are exposed to the weather," he said.

Seconding the Wingblad amendment, Mr. Masson said it was pitiful to think of winning the war, I wonder if we're going to fight that very important fact."

The next speaker, William Tomy, said he had been asked by the Dominion government to place the onus of beer restrictions on the provinces, which was most welcome.

"The Dominion government was considering the possibility of playing the slacked part of Dominion politics," he declared.

The liquor restriction does not do any lot of good, but plenty of harm," he went on. "They have created a new industry—bootlegging."

Mr. Tomy said that temperance, was not a national and the states should be allowed to decide the public regarding the poisonous effects of alcohol.

SHARE IN POLICY

Mr. Howe might be concerned about the experimental work at the tar sands, but he had a share in the general government policy on defence.

Mr. Johnson said the government had requested no others be sent to the tar sands area until its experimental work there had been completed.

The government has definitely fallen down on its responsibility on tar sands development, he said. After 30 years' research there has been little progress going." About $1,000,000 had been spent on wartime studies in the tar sands area, and the mental plant provided was not

SOMETHING SINISTER

"There's something sinister behind all this," said Mr. Johnson.

Mr. Johnson stated to result a resolution approved by the Alberta legislature which had appropriated funds in the work at the tar sands and urging the Dominion to a royal commission to inquire into operations there.

Mr. Howe interrupted and said the reading of the resolution might be derogatory to the house of commons.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative member for Athabasca, said Mr. Howe was to be commended for reflecting on the government's lack of reflection on parliament, but he had voted against the resolution and it could be read.

Mr. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, said if the resolution was critical of the government, it was critical of itself, it was critical of parliament as a whole.

Mr. Howe said in the evening had spent in discussion of the tar sands which did not concern his department, and the deputy speaker agreed he had been allowed sufficient leave.

Deputy Speaker Bradette said Mr. Howe was to be commended.

J. M. Deen, of Athabasca said he protested against the discussion as out of order.

Chief Speaker

Declares Sale Of War Goods Must Be Fair

OTTAWA, March 22.—(CP)—J. G. Diefenbaker (P.C., Lake Centre) said yesterday in the Commons that sales of surplus war materials must not be made to speculators and there must be equality of opportunity in its purchase.

Speaking in support of the resolution, Mr. Diefenbaker said tens of millions of dollars of surplus war goods would be available for export.

Records concerning such materials should be open for public inspection and disposal arrangements should be made with the manufacturers.

The people had been denied information about the production of war materials.

ROAD TO SOCIALISM

The government-owned synthetic rubber plant represented the first step in the road to socialism. It represented the closest approximation to socialism in the Canadian government.

The government should say whether the人造橡胶 plant was owned by the crown or by the shareholders.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the plant was owned by the crown, and the government had been informed that the plant was owned by the shareholders.

Munitions Minister Howe said the government had never entered into any arrangement connected with private industry.

The synthetic rubber plant was built in the same time as the U.S. battleship stood off shore at Kaveng, Thailand, to receive supplies delivered probably the heaviest naval bombardment of this theatre.

During the war the Matthes plant stands outside the Allie ring, and left the battered Japanese garrison with its stocks of rice and sugar.

Supply lines or evacuation routes were blocked by Allied forces of the British and the northern tip of the Solomon Islands east of New Ireland; Rock Islands, 30 miles west of New Guinea and new Britain, and the Admirable Islands, 50 miles northwest of Kaveng.

Surprise Attack

NEW YORK, March 22.—(CP)—French commandos killed 200 Germans and captured 260 in surprise attack last Saturday night on an island between Corsica and Italy, French Foreign Minister Jean Monnet said last night.

The two will start furloughs on March 1, and will take over their new duties at the conclusion of leave.

ASKS ABOUT SUPPLIES

Mr. Diefenbaker said he would demand that the millions of dollars of surplus war goods be disposed of in a timely manner.

"If the minister of supplies has been unable to dispose of the surplus war goods, he should be made to do so," said Mr. Howe.

A Question of Fairness

While the plan has not been clarified in detail, it is to be supposed that in compelling the railways to dispose of their air transport system, the Government meant to protect them against actual loss of investment in doing so. Indirectly the T.C.A. belongs to the Government, but the National Railways should not be compelled to share in that protection, the fact is true.

The 1943 operations demonstrated the great earning power of the system, proving again that it can handle an immense volume of business economically and expeditiously.

The moral is plain. In after-war years

the National system can do what it did last year, both in supplying transportation and in supporting itself, if it is given the opportunity. All it needs—and all it ever needed—is a little help. Relative quid pro quo, general public policy, a condition of "full employment" for the people of Canada will mean full employment also for the Railways, and a satisfactory balance sheet at the end of the year.

Both these enterprises have been developed according to law and public policy. Now that the policy is to be changed, nothing less than complete control to operate the services should have to sacrifice capital investment because the change is being made.

It may be that there will be no such loss involved in either case. There is a prospect that the Railways will be even more busy and profitable field of enterprise. If so, the publicly-owned system can be transferred to the new operating authority at full investment value, and the privately-owned system can probably be sold for what it is worth. But only the future can make this certain.

Since the changes of ownership are to be demanded by law, the present owners should be guaranteed against any loss of invested capital as a matter of common fairness.

Setting A Standard

Edmonton is now in that transition stage which lies between the town and the metropolitan area. It is at once a hopeful period, and a most difficult period. It is hopeful because signs of growth are as hopeful. It is discouraging because it requires an effort to step up habits of mind and standards of civic leadership to the requirements of a community which is beginning to grow to a small neighborhood, but to the world.

It is startling to discover suddenly that the methods and thinking and standards which were good enough for a village are completely inadequate in the needs of a major city.

This discovery which has caused so many forward-looking citizens of Edmonton to press urgently for a general program of civic beautification, particularly with regard to the creation of a park in the entire block of land between Main Street and Hotel.

This readjustment of views and standards is vitally important because so many things depend upon it.

If one takes the lead in setting standards, and others follow, then the general tendency of the entire citizenry will be towards degeneration, carelessness and indifference.

But once a standard of beautification and improvement is fixed, everyone begins to work to that standard. This has been proved time and time again. For instance, the beautification of the city of Ottawa, a number of years ago, gradually set a new standard for the entire country-side. Even adjacent villages were stimulated to new efforts.

Well-paved streets, adequate sidewalks and suitable parks, particularly in the business districts—these all stir up a new civic consciousness in citizens young and old. And out of that comes a desire to improve, to make the most valuable asset any community may possess.

Only the city officials can take the lead and set the standard for Edmonton. That is why immediate and far-sighted action will result in the May Hotel Park measure, so much more than the project itself, important as that may be.

This park, this essential breathing space in an area that so soon will be congested, is the symbol of Edmonton's emergence into metropolitanism.

The National Railways

Canada's "white elephant" of the depression years is now proving its usefulness as a carrier, and more than earning its keep in the matter of passenger and freight. The annual report presented to parliament shows that in 1943 the system carried four times as many passengers and more than twice the amount of freight as in the best year of peace-time, 1928.

In recent years the carrying of people and goods has not been the sole activity of the National system in the war years. It has been building ships, repairing naval and cargo vessels, producing guns, mortars, tanks, aircraft, ships, tanks, and other types of munitions. These side lines are not to be forgotten in measuring the service that has been rendered to the nation's war effort. They were carried on in the plains and prairie districts involved in keeping 2,500 locomotives, 90,000 freight cars and 3,500 passenger cars rolling as they never had to be kept moving in times of peace.

The financial outcome of the year's operations is most gratifying. With all operating expenses paid, there remained a balance of $10,000,000 from which the cash surplus was $35,630,100, an increase of more than $10,000,000 over that of 1942. The total funded debt of the system was reduced by $1,983,601. Taxes paid amounted to $60,978. Interest paid on funded debt to the public was $60,995. Interest paid on loans from the Government was $18,664.84.

These figures show that the Railways can do in the way of handling transportation what no other organization available in keeping with the capacity of the system it can take care of itself financially, with no deficit to be made up by the taxpayers at the end of the year. In his report, Mr. R. C. Vause, chairman and managing director, states the fact:

"The 1943 operations demonstrated the great earning power of the system, proving again that it can handle an immense volume of business economically and expeditiously."

The moral is plain. In after-war years

the National system can do what it did last year, both in supplying transportation and in supporting itself, if it is given the opportunity. All it needs—and all it ever

McCormick's Charge Fully Refuted by Established Facts

By B. T. RICHARDSON

OTTAWA—An item in the news section of the Edmonton Bulletin on March 10, which has drawn a rejoinder in Australia, Robert McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune, has not national conceptions, while American conception is that Australia is making no effort to help us relate the Philippines, and the Chinese, to our side. One of the rules of this war is that gratuitous insults directed at any ally in time of war are considered treason. They will have difficulty in understanding the Chinese or their terms. Yet the incident provides an opportunity for reasonable persons in other countries, to consider the record. An Australian newspaper has said that the majority of the United States public, in an earlier stage, supported the greatest spread of information and goodwill concerning China that this country had ever enjoyed in the United States.

The question is who is to be blamed for having sent us. Fortunately the record is ample on this point. Australia was saved primarily by the courage and determination of the United States, and by no other agency. The United States played a minor part in the saving of Australia; but since the United States is playing such a major role in the Pacific war in its present, preliminary offensive stage, its influence in 1942 has begun to be obscured.

It is worth keeping clearly in perspective that Australia played no role at all in the saving of Australia, and that is one of the significant differences in the two countries' attitudes relating to this war. To make the list incomplete, no other country interested in the Pacific war is playing a part of any importance in saving Australia. Certainly Canada did

New Guinea is the main outpost of Australian defence, and it was manned almost entirely by Australian troops.

The battle of the Coral Sea, in May, 1942, and the later battle of Midway, April 1942, were lost by the United States.

When the Japanese had lost the Coral Sea, they had not yet held New Guinea for they would have had no base outflanking the eastern coast of Australia. But that itself produced the first effective Australian and American forces, and some of the planes that destroyed the Japanese bombers which were based on airfields in Australia.

On September 1, 1942, one of the detonators used to set the perimeter of Japanese expansion began at Kokoda Pass in the Owen Stanley Range.

There Australian conscripts and regulars stopped the Japs, and from that day to this they have fought gallantly.

To turn again to Japan, the U.S. Marines were fighting in Guadalcanal, Solomon Islands, and their victory there, too, was a decisive milestone in the turn of Allied fortunes in the Pacific.

House Endorses Federal Policy On Floor Prices

Expressing considerable of the Dominion government announcement that floor prices are to be established for farm products, and calling upon "farmers' organizations to any body set up to implement the Dominion's policy, an amendment to the bill dealing with the floor price question received unanimous support in the Legislature Tuesday evening.

The original resolution was introduced into the House by N. E. Cook (S.C., Ind.), and seconded by H. C. Hartley (Winnipeg, MB). It was amended by George MacLachlan (Ind., Pembridge).

Mr. MacLachlan's amendment added to the resolution a request that representatives of farmers' organizations be invited to appear before or board or commission that the senior government appoint to deal with the floor price question.

Mr. Cook, in moving his resolution, said all that was being asked was that the government go far enough in a reasonable way to the costs of production.

He said that in the past, the farm prices had not been maintained, and did not ensure a proper standard of living for agriculture.

Mr. MacLachlan, seconding the motion, said he felt it important that floor prices be assured to farmers to meet the costs of production, costs, and some profit as well.

The next speaker, Mr. MacLachlan, said organized farmers could rightfully claim to represent agriculture. He suggested that Cook's resolution should go far enough and pointed out the present lack of farmer representation on various committees.

SHOULD SUGGEST LEVELS

W. Masson, (S.C., Wainwright), said that suggestions should be made to desirable levels for floor prices.

James Walker, a member of the Farmers' Union, said it was necessary to have agricultural representatives on boards, to reflect their industry's needs. He also said that the Dominion has asked for establishment of floor prices, and that producers should expect some profit of the resolution and its amendment.

C. I. Sayers, (S.C., Camrose), told members that it was in the national interest that farmers' incomes should be increased at a level that would be fair. He said the farmers are entitled to conveniences enjoyed by city dwellers, and added that the time when people in automobiles, mobiles, were more necessary to country dwellers than to urban residents.

J. J. Bowles (Calgary) said the farming industry was one more or less under fire. He spoke in support of the resolution and amendment, declaring confidence must be created in the agricultural industry.

Daily War Map—Exclusively in The Edmonton Bulletin

Germany should not be cut up into many small states, Edouard Lacombe, who writes for The Edmonton Bulletin whose article appears each Saturday in this paper, as this would renew strife. But, he suggests, Prussia east of the Elbe, including Berlin, with a population of 14,000,000, should be given independence. Poland would get East Prussia and Upper Silesia. The rest of Germany would become the "German Confederation." This is one of many suggestions made for partition of Germany.

Over the battlefields of the world the skies were filled with American bombers, but the planes dropped along the might of the enemy. Then, how few were the planes available for the defense of Britain.

Yet those few planes, manned by British airmen, have met the enemy, fought against the most valiant men in the world over Britain are still British skin.

Thus E. W. S. Kane, K.C., president of the Men's Club, said: "I am sure we have a necessity to have agricultural representatives on boards, to reflect their industry's needs. He also said that the Dominion has asked for establishment of floor prices, and that producers should expect some profit of the resolution and its amendment.

R.A.F. Ace Recounts Experiences In Great Battles Over Britain

Over the battlefields of the world the skies were filled with American bombers, but the planes dropped along the might of the enemy. Then, how few were the planes available for the defense of Britain.

Canally, official of his experiences—the time was down in the English channel for seven hours, and he had to drop his pre-mixed oil of all, the cigarette "got it," he paid tribute to his comrades.

The sergeant, he said, liked to jitterbug and play records all the time, but when he was shot down he had to change his theme song of the squadron, one of the popular songs last year.

Another one of his experiences occurred when a cloud broke up a formation and he found himself flying alone, facing an oncoming plane.

"The last I saw of them," he said, "was when I closed my eyes and heard them coming in circles attacking each other."

At the conclusion of his address Douglas Jordan, a member of the Canadian Club, on behalf of the club, extended a vote of thanks to W. H. Compton Charles, D.S.O. and D.F.C., and guest speaker at the club's luncheon meeting in the Macdonald Club, afternoon.

REMEMBER CRITICAL DAYS

We all remember those anxious and heart rending days of 1940, he continued, but even yet we hardly realize the critical days of 1941 in the world and for us had that thin line of planes in the sky not held together?

As long as the tales of great deeds are told, he added what we did in 1940 will never be forgotten.

Wing Commander Charles, he said, is one of those heroes whom we all know. He spoke overver with the Princess Patricia Canadian Cavalry Regiment. After the war, he came to Canada with his family in the same year and settled here until he enlisted in 1939.

I guess you can tell the story of the Fighter Command," he said. "Charles said, at least my experiences during last year.

Retaining his war experiences where seconds and fractions mean life or death, he told the story of his first dog fight, and the dog fight and ground sweepstakes for bringing down the one thousandth Hun plane.

Wing Commander Charles, he said, is one of those heroes whom we all know. He spoke overver with the Princess Patricia Canadian Cavalry Regiment. After the war, he came to Canada with his family in the same year and settled here until he enlisted in 1939.

COMPETITION ON

He was stationed at Biggin Hill and all Fighter Command stations to see which airman would bring down the one thousandth Hun plane.

I knew I had to put up a good show for Canada and the plane I was sent, Canada on the map," he said.

Wing Commander Charles told him a plane forming up behind him was heading south when they met an approaching enemy formation. The station commander then ordered him to drop a bomb and another pilot brought a third plane to drop a bomb so that they could determine which of the two pilots had brought down the Hun plane.

He was never rested, we worked and fought day and night; the entire population lent a hand until the Hitlerite bandits, choking in their own blood, fled.

In the dark days of the winter of 1941 when 83 German tanks and infantry divisions were hurled against Moscow in an attempt to encircle the capital of the Soviet state, we all saw the fierce defense of our native city. We never rested, we worked and fought day and night; the entire population lent a hand until the Hitlerite bandits, choking in their own blood, fled.

This is a word descriptive of the defense of that city given by the representative of the Soviet film industry in Canada, who arrived in Edmonton recently.

Pension Reforms for Aged are Studied by Legislature

Reduction in Age Limit, Payment of $50 Monthly Is Urged in Resolution

Asking for a reduction in the age limit of old age pensions to 60 years, and an increase in the amount of the pension to $50 a month, a resolution urging the Dominion government to revise the old age pension regulations is now before the Alberta Legislature.

Introduced by N. B. James (S.C., Edmonton) and seconded by H. G. Bailey (S.C., Spirit River), the resolution declares "the first duty of every Christian country should be to care for its aged people, and that should be payment of a just debt for services rendered."

Amongst the motion, calling for a reduction in the pension age limit to 65 years for men and 60 years for women, and an increase in the monthly pension to $50, has been introduced by J. Percy Page (Ind.). Edmonton, seconded by E. G. McLean.

FREE MEDICAL CARE

The amendment also asks for free hospital, medical, dental and optical care for all citizens over 65 years of age, recommended by the Alberta Post-War Reconstruction committee.

Mrs. C. R. Wood (S.C., Stony Plain) adjourned debate on the pension question before the Page amendment was introduced.

Debate will probably be resumed Thursday, private members' day.

The original motion introduced by Mr. James appears below.

RESOLVED, That the aged citizens have been the chief contributors to the upbuilding of this country; and whereas, it has been proved, that Canada has the highest standard of living in the world, and that it will be essential to maintain this standard for its citizens;

Whereas, the first duty of every Christian aged person should be to care for his aged people, not as a charity, but for services rendered; therefore

It is resolved, that this assembly do urge the federal government to take steps to insure that pensioners, Continued on Page Thirteen

Two Are Arrested On Theft Charges

Two persons were arrested by city police Tuesday, following investigations of theft. One of those arrested was identified as a youth, while in another case a youth escaped after breaking into a place of business.

Robert Reay was charged with the theft of an overcoat owned by the Hotel Del Fairview Hotel.

He was taken from the hotel about 12:30 a.m. yesterday afternoon.

Samuel S. Thompson, reporting the theft of his property, Mr. Duff notified authorities that Reay had been seen in a downtown hotel about 12:30 a.m. When interviewed by police, Reay said he had bought the coat two months ago from a man who had not been identified by the buyer as a hole in the right-hand pocket. Reay then went to a salve to admit to having sold the coat for $1.15 to a second-hand dealer.

A 13-year-old youth was arrested after being questioned further and it was found he had stolen a sleeping bag and kit, property of Edgar Carlton, from the Carlton Inn.

Investigators reported finding part of the stolen articles at a 101 street residence where the youth was found the next day in a youth in a safe. He was identified by the shopkeeper as having taken some of the stolen property to him.

The balance of the articles were found in a street rooming house. Value of the property was given as about $90.

Asker Early Opening Jasper-Banff Road

Officials of the Alberta Motor Association announced Wednesday that they are urging the opening of the Jasper-Banff-Lester road, which has been closed since January 24 so that car owners can avail themselves of earlier holiday traffic on the highway between Jasper and Lester, which should be open in some districts by this time.

It was pointed out that, according to reports by park rangers, a large percentage of the visitors to the Jasper area are members of the armed forces, who spent their leaves in the holiday resort.

Your Baby And Mine

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDER
So many mothers, especially those days when we all had time, have switched because of war-time work shifts, have fallen into some poor practices as it relates to the baby's and child's growing schedule.

Many present day children aren't "bedded down" for the night until after 9 o'clock. The mother thinks this is perfectly all right because as she says, the baby sleeps longer. But the baby wakes at 4 a.m. for a first feeding.

True the baby is getting the required number of hours of sleep, but the child is still not desirable one. It is accustoming the baby to a program of sleep that is going to be hard to break when the child grows older. Once the child has become conscious of himself as a member of his family group this 10 p.m. bed-time schedule will show up its disadvantages.

Chiefly the child is going to sleep later than the parents and probably all the entertainment and recreation designed for the older children or adults in the family will be given preference so does he, despite the late hour and the undesirable entertainment. If they go dancing, playing cards around, widdly and exclusively. If the family listens to a noisy, thrilling radio program, so does he. He is trying to see what he act.

And despite the mother's efforts, he is going to bed in to such bad habits, introduced to such training, will ever go to bed until the family does, no matter what time it is.

Inevitably school will complicate the picture, but by then it is too late. The child who has been allowed to stay up late. That has been the pattern from infancy and even if he can no longer sleep until 10 or 11 o'clock, he will go to bed until 10 or later at night.

The time to introduce an attitude of discipline and strictness is when he is still a tiny infant. The mother must come to understand that no matter what the family does, he goes to bed shortly after his parents do. This is the proper, the healthful, the suitable bed-time for growing little ones.

Because there has never been any other program, there will then be no reasonable argument against it.

Six to 6 ½ to 7 and 8 to 9 are all good times for bed. Late hours, 8 to 9, late hours for adults, not children.

One deficit, "Steering Habits," indicates the changes which take place in the child's sleeping patterns as he grows older. It is sent by W. E. McKenney, a resident of Glenmore, Alberta, in a self-addressed envelope together with his request for it to Myrtle Meyer Elder in care of this newspaper.

EATON'S for Easter FASHIONS!

To Help You With Your D.A. (Date Ability)

Demure But Devastating That's YOU in Your New Spring Hat!

That innocent wide-eyed look . . . that fresh band-box appearance . . . you're all dressed up, and you'll have lots of places to go, wearing your EATON chapeau! Whether it's a fur felt, or a straw (trade name) you fall for, you'll catch all eyes—especially if it's floating on a mist of veil, or perched up with a flower or two!

Included are small, large, and new half hats—see them all Thursday!
